GRAFT IN COLORADO

Wholesale Indictments Ordered By Interstate Commerce Commission.

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, April 2.—The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission made today shows a great number of cases of graft by judges, state, county and municipal officials as well as the members of the legislature in Colorado. The report was made after an investigation conducted at Denver.

For accepting such favors the commissioners have demanded indictments against Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, Victor American Fuel Company, Colorado Portland Cement Company, United States Portland Cement Company, Great Western Sugar Company, The Colorado and Southern Railroad and the Denver, Rio Grande Company are also charged with having violated the anti-pass provisions of the interstate commerce laws by giving passes.

Commissioner Harland said the violations were of an extraordinary number. He said the records showed that judges, state officials, members of the legislature, as well as county and municipal officers generally used passes when they traveled.

The commissioners said they have found where judges made personal requests for passes and at the same time expressed their sense of obligation for the favors granted them. Where the passes were not given voluntarily by the railroads they were asked for.

Witnesses for the railroads testified that they gave passes to "bosses" for political purposes.

Objects to the Truth.

Editor of the Missourian: Please stop my paper as I do not care to have a paper in my store that will publish such an article as you did today, regarding high prices, none of which are true, and as regards rents anybody knows you can rent a half block in Centralia for what a 25th room costs here. Your paper may be a good thing for some body but it certainly does not do the City of Columbia any good by continuing to knock all the time.

Yours truly,
L. C. SMITH.

Mr. Smith doubtless sells at the Centralia prices quoted in the story which The Missourian, in the interest of the people who buy goods, quoted yesterday. If he does not sell at these prices, his statement that the Missourian's figures are incorrect is, of course, untrue.

Besides L. C. Smith, H. R. Richards of the Richards Meat Market called the Missourian today and ordered his paper stopped because he objected to the quotation of meat prices in other towns.

lins, W. T. Cross, D. A. Robnett, F. G. Harris, and Mrs. C. W. Greene.

A bill passed by the General Assembly provides that in counties of less than 50,000 inhabitants the probate judge shall hear all juvenile cases. The method of procedure specified in the juvenile court law now in operation is to be followed by the probate judge.

The law also provides that juvenile offenders shall not be confined in jails and that they shall be protected from association with criminals. A probation officer must be appointed by the county court to look after the offenders placed on parole. Parents who neglect their children may be punished under the new law. The law will go into effect ninety days after the General Assembly adjourns.

N. T. Gentry explained the law to the organization. "The best feature of the bill," he said, "is the provision that prohibits placing children in jails."

EXPECTS TO BE CONVICTED

But Mrs. Pankhurst Says Also She Will Escape If Possible.

By United Press.
LONDON, April 2.—Before she pleaded not guilty to the charge of conspiracy, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant leader of the English suffragettes, told a correspondent of the United Press that she fully expected to be convicted. The firm of Bewick and Koch was awarded the contract for the paving, curbing and grading of Rosemary Lane. The bid was $4,615.28. As a result of a remonstrance against the construction of a sidewalk on the west side of Price avenue from Hinkson avenue to Eugenia avenue, further action in the matter was suspended.

The city engineer was authorized to notify the Missouri Kansas and Texas Railroad to repair a crossing at Fourth street. ## HIS LOOT 20 CENTS

Man Plus Club Equals H.
E. Keim Minus His Money.

A big club was the reason given last night why the money in H. E. Keim's pockets should change owners. Keim parted with twenty cents and the club went away with its unidentified companion.

Mr. Keim, who is a leader of Keim's Orchestra, besides being a teacher of violin music at Christian College, played at a dance at Columbia Club last night. It was about 1:30 o'clock this morning when he started for his home at 121. Walnut street.

The White Way was rather gray about that time. Only the top light was burning on each post, and the stars were not helping out much. When Keim reached the Armory on East Broadway he saw a man standing on the steps leading to the yard. The club was there, too, but Keim didn't know that.

"Hold on there," shouted the man.

"Mr. Keim, hold on."

"Got any money?" This time it was the club that spoke.

"I've got a little," answered the violinist.

"Well, fork it over," said the club.

Mr. Keim scraped the bottom of his pockets and brought up twenty cents. In some peevishness the club's companion insisted on searching those same pockets himself. Nothing doing. "Aha," he cried suddenly. "What's this?"

"Just a door key," Keim assured him.

Door keys weren't wanted, it seemed. Neither were violins, watches or rings. So the man, the club and the twenty cents strolled off down the street, and Keim went home.

Keim is a graduate of the University, and belongs to the Kappa Sigma fraternity. He says he could not tell whether the robber was white or black, but that his voice sounded black. He notified the police this afternoon.
